What is special about EGoS?

- EGoS offers innovative components: professionalizing workshops, collaborative online educational activities, international student and teaching staff exchanges;
- EGoS has a range of partners for internships and works with students in finding the most suitable for them;
- EGoS pays specific attention to the management of interactions in decision-making and decision-making processes, provides networking skills and prepares you to collaborate in trans-national and trans-cultural settings.

Keen to master your capacity to work in an intercultural environment and develop leadership skills to address some of the most pressing issues currently engaging governments, European and international organizations, as well as businesses and social movements?

The course welcomes students who want to contribute in shaping future developments in areas such as sustainability policies, digital transformations, and global encounters. You will acquire knowledges, competences, methods and tools to engage with European politics and to effectively intervene in multi-actor global phenomena through critical, innovative, and interdisciplinary approaches.

How is EGoS structure?

The program is articulated around a common track, providing multidisciplinary knowledge and competences, and two thematic tracks.
